*Chapter 1*: Gingka Meets a Pegasus!

Crimson: Hey! Well, I had two Valentine's Day fanfic ideas, but just couldn't write the romantic part out properly on time. So I decided to do this PJOXMetal Fight Beyblade crossover that's more funny than romantic. And my it's first 500-word drabble! (Not counting Author's Notes, of course) ^^ Happy Valentine's Day!

Enjoy!

Disclaimer: I do not own Percy Jackson and the Olympians series/The Heroes of Olympus series nor do I own Metal Fight Beyblade. Placed somewhat in Metal Fury.

"Oh!"

Gingka's eyes sparkled in awe. The creature bestowed in front of the blader's eye snorted.

'Hey, boss! How long's this freak gonna stare at me?'

"Uh, sorry, Blackjack." his "owner", Percy, replied.

"Hm?" Madoka asked. Kyoya, Hyoma, Kenta and, surprisingly, Ryuga looked at Percy. Wang Hu Zhong was there, too.

"Oh! Blackjack, the pegasus there, is just asking when your friend will stop staring at him. Uh, when will he...?"

"Who knows?" Kyoya said, not caring. He crossed his arms. "It's a pegasus, like his bey, Cosmic Pegasus. 'Course he'd be like... obsessed."

"Still..." Annabeth said.

Blackjack neighed, capturing everyone's attention.

"What did he say, now?" Mei-mei asked.

"He wants a donut."

"A donut?" Kenta asked.

"Yeah, he loves them." Annabeth said with a small smile.

"That's pretty odd." Dashan remarked.

"Well, our friend, Hazel's, horse, Arion, loves gold nuggets, so..."

"Besides, nothing's 'normal' in the Greek... world." Nico, who just came from shadow-travelling, stated, being careful of his choice of words.

"Donuts?!" Gingka yelled. He rushed off at hyper-speed somewhere. His friends, the demigod group and Blackjack stared at where he went. He soon came back, at amazing speed, with a box of donuts in hand.

"Here!" he beamed.

Happily, and a bit reluctantly, our donut-eating friend gobbled up one of the pastries.

Gingka continued to stare while the horse finished off the box of at least five donuts or so, and the animal started to feel creeped out once more. After a few minutes of staring, Blackjack started to neigh again.

"Ugh, what now?!" Ryuga spat out. The Dragon Emperor didn't know why he was there, but he just... was. And he was getting really annoyed.

"He's annoyed and bored. W-"

Percy was cut off by the legendary blader running up to him. He grabbed the demigod by the shoulders and shook him a bit. By the look of his face, and more specifically, his wide-stretched grin, he had an idea that to him, it seemed better than sliced bread and butter, or whatever.

"Can I ride him?" Gingka asked eagerly, practically yelling in excitement.

"W-what?" Percy asked.

Blackjack's face was truly priceless. It gave a 'No way in the Underworld is this kid gonna ride me!' look. He started to paw the ground and whinnied in protest, though, nobody else could understand him. The winged stallion could've flown away, but he decided not to, just to stay with his master.

"Can. I. Ride. Him?" Gingka repeated slowly.

"Umm..." Percy thought. Would it get the eccentric blader off their backs? It would be peaceful. Even if only awhile...

'You serious, boss?!" Blackjack freaked out.

'Well,' Percy started, mentally. 'C'mon, he likes your... kind, so why not?'

And, so, Gingka went off riding into the sunset over Half-Blood Hill on a very grumpy black pegasus who was probably plotting something in revenge for the son of Poseidon.

Crimson: Haha! Hope you enjoyed! Please leave a review and tell me how I did! I may do a few more like "Masamune Meets a Unicorn" or "Ryuga Meets a Dragon". Had to write this in like, 15 minutes because I had to get off the computer.

Ciao, you love-birds or single peoples! (like me!) XP
